Opening Session: Saturday 16 Jumada II, 1415H
(19 November 1994)

1- The opening session was held under the chairmanship of H.E. Ambassador Lamine Kamara, Chairman of the Executive Council. It was attended by H.E. Mohammed Ghassan Al-Halabi, Minister of Education in the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic and Dr. Abdulaziz Othman Altwajri, Director General of the Islamic Organization. The session was likewise attended by several representatives of Member States' embassies accredited in Damascus, senior officials of the Ministry of Education in the Syrian Arab Republic and a host of intellectuals and scholars.

2- The opening session started with a recitation of verses from the Holy Qur'an. H.E. Ambassador Lamine Kamara, Chairman of the Executive Council and representative of the Republic of Guinea, delivered an address in which he first expressed thanks to the Syrian Arab Republic for hosting this session and for the facilities provided to ensure its success. He then welcomed the members of the Executive Council and thanked them for the efforts exerted at the previous session to enrich the Draft Action Plan and Budget for the years 1995-1997. He commended the significant progress in the preparation of the Organization's reports on its achievements and the evaluation of the positive and negative aspects of its work. He stressed the necessity for the prevalence of the spirit of Islamic brotherhood among the personnel of the Organization which is playing a distinct civilizational role. He praised the efforts of the Director General in collecting Member States' contributions and seeking external resources through concluding cooperation agreements with similar Islamic and international organizations. (The address delivered by H.E. Lamine Kamara, Chairman of the Executive Council, is attached as Annex 2).

3- H.E. Dr. Abdulaziz Othman Altwajri, ISESCO Director General, then delivered an address in which he first thanked the Syrian Arab Republic, its President, Government and people for their full response, cooperation and readiness to ensure optimal conditions for holding the session.

He also welcomed the members of the Executive Council and proceeded to review the most important accomplishments of the Organization in the fields of education, science and culture in the period between the 14th and 15th sessions of the Executive Council.

He stressed the importance of the 15th session in which the members of the Executive Council would consider the Draft Action Plan and Budget for the Financial years 1995-1997, which he described as a comprehensive and detailed programme of the activities to be carried out by the Organization at this crucial stage on the eve of the 21st century.

At the end of his address, the Director General pointed out the Organization's endeavour to meet, through its plans and programmes, the civilizational challenges that face the Islamic World in ISESCO's fields of competence; he emphasized that this could be achieved through Member States' support for the Organization to help it discharge its noble mission. (The address delivered by H.E. Dr. Abdulaziz Othman Altwaijri, Director General of the Islamic Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization is attached as Annex 3).

4- H.E. Mohammed Ghassan Al-Halabi, Minister of Education in the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic, delivered an address in which he first welcomed the members of the Executive Council, wishing them a fruitful and successful session. He stressed the important role played by education in terms of building man's personality, disseminating culture, keeping abreast of the developments witnessed in knowledge and consolidating the role of education in international understanding. He indicated that Syria attached paramount importance to education under the leadership of President Hafez Al-Assad. He emphasized the need to conciliate between the patrimony of the past and the requirements of the present in order to meet the challenges of the modern epoch which is characterized by boom of knowledge and rapid scientific and technical development. He also stressed the necessity to draw inspiration from the experiment of the Islamic civilization in all these undertakings and underlined that development plans should tackle problems of the rampant illiteracy, the failure to take advantage of education and knowledge, the cultural, scientific and cultural dependence, the growing marginalization and seclusion, and the irrational management of the environmental resources. He called on the Organization to promote international relations and cooperation among its Member States and with other countries of the world, the aim being to establish more balanced and just relations.

He lauded the efforts made by the Islamic Organization to close the ranks of the Muslim family in the interest of Arabs and Muslims alike, indicating that the present age is one of bloc-building and that the current challenges facing the Ummah could be met only through pooling efforts and political wills in a way which turns weakness into strength. At the end of his address, he stressed that Syria took boundless pride in Islam and that the banner of Islam would fly ever high in Syria. He quoted H.E. the President of the Republic Hafez Al-Assad saying: "Syria has always been and will ever remain a lighthouse of Islam." (The address delivered by H.E. Mohammed Ghassan Al-Halabi, Minister of Education in the Government of the Syrian Arab Republic is attached as Annex 4).

The addresses delivered at the opening session were adopted as part of the working documents of this session.

Agenda Item 2.4: Report of the Director General on the situation of Member States' contributions to the Organization's budget and on redressing the Organization's financial situation for financial year 1993 and the first semester of 1994

(Document CE15/94/2.4)

18- The Director General submitted his Report on Member States' contributions to the Organization's budget and on redressing the Organization's financial situation for financial year 1993 and the first semester of 1994. He indicated that the report was divided into two parts, the first part showing Member States' contributions for 1992-1993 and the second covering the period 1993-1994. He said that the report included the contributions settled for the financial year 1993-1994 and previous years and showed the Member States which had paid their contributions, either in full or in part, during the financial year 1993-1994, in addition to those Member States which paid their contributions after June 30th, 1994. He further stated that the report surveyed the arrears of Member States to the Organization's budget, which amounted to US$ 47,863,351.28 on June 30th, 1994, and invited the Executive Council to consider the matter and take the necessary measures to redress the Organization's financial situation.

19- The members of the Executive Council then proceeded to discuss the report and commended the outstanding efforts exerted by the Director General in this regard.

They made the following observations:

- Non-commitment of some Member States to settling contributions according to the rates stipulated in the Organization's budget, which may induce other States to reconsider their contribution rates;
- Revitalization of the Committee set up by the 14th Executive Council session to consider the situation of Member States' contributions to the Organization's budget;
- Necessity to refrain from encouraging some Member States to settle their contributions in local currency;
- Necessity not to apply UNESCO's experiment of inflicting sanctions on States which fail to settle their contributions, in view of the special spiritual and civilizational ties binding the Muslim Ummah;
- Inviting the Director General to pay more visits to the Member States in order to shed light on the Organization and its noble objectives, and urge them to settle their contributions to the Organization's budget.

The representative of the Republic of the Sudan then took the floor and stressed that the Sudanese competent authorities had transferred to the account of the Islamic Organization part of the contribution of the Republic of the Sudan for the previous year. The representative of the Republic of Senegal advised the Council, in turn, that the Senegalese competent authorities had transferred to the Islamic Organization's account the contribution of the Republic of Senegal. The representative of the Republic of Yemen emphasized, for his part, that the contributions of his country for the previous period are deposited, in local currency, at the Central Bank of Yemen, and they would be transferred to ISESCO's account as soon as some bank obstacles are lifted.

20- Commenting on the views expressed, the Chairman of the Executive Council proposed to attach to the Report of the Committee set up to study Member States' contributions to the Organization's budgets, an appeal from the Executive Council urging Member States to settle their contributions.

The Director General thanked the Council members, for their serious discussions that reflected their keen interest in the Organization and their support for its mission. He indicated that the Organization had carried out a comparative study of its revenues over the three-year action plans 1985-1988, 1988-1991 and 1991-1994. He pointed out the significant improvement in the pace of payment of contributions and said that the General Directorate would circulate, at a later session, a document annexed to the Report, showing the countries that paid their contributions after June 1994. He proposed to set up a Committee from the Executive Council members that would meet concurrently with the fifth General Conference to consider this issue. He concluded by inviting the countries that contested their contributions to hasten to settle what they deemed to be appropriate until the General Conference rules the matter.

After discussions, the Council adopted the following decision:

- Devise a mechanism to determine the way in which the General Directorate should establish an order of priority for implementation of programmes, in the light of the effectively collected budget;

- Set-up, within the General Directorate, an organ catering for basic education, literacy, vocational and technical education, on the basis of the Special Islamic Programme for Literacy and Basic Training in Islamic Countries and Communities;
- Draw up a plan that would enable the General Directorate to benefit from donor parties, within the framework of the resolutions of the Jomtien Conference on "Education for All";
- Give priority in implementation, whenever possible, to programmes that are related to preventive and environmental education and the use of computers in Qur'anic and Hadith studies;

- Attach importance to the Islamic encyclopedia project and look into the possibility of participation of some ISESCO Executive Council members in the project's editorial board;
- Attach importance to programmes concerned with strengthening and asserting the Islamic identity through positive, dynamic initiatives rather than defensive, introvert attitudes;

He underlined that the implementation mechanisms provided for a varied set of programmes and activities covering all fields of action pertaining to literacy according to the needs, requests and specific characteristics of each Member State.

The Members of the Executive Council proceeded to discuss the various aspects of the Document. Their observations and proposals focused on the following:

- Non-satisfaction with the remedies proposed to solve the illiteracy problem within the framework of the World Declaration on "Education for All" issued in Jomtien, from which stemmed the Special Islamic Programme for Literacy and Basic Training for All in Islamic Countries and Communities;
- Necessity to proceed from standardized model programmes which take into consideration the national programmes of Member States, provide them with advanced educational methods that transcend conventional systems, and take interest in training educational cadres at a first stage, on the understanding that this experiment be launched, at a first phase, in one or two Member States within a specific period of time;
- Consider setting up an Islamic Literacy Mechanism similar to the Arab one, to be supervised by the Organization and financed from a fund established for this purpose;
- Importance of grassroots participation through non-governmental organizations.

25- The Director General then took the floor and expressed appreciation for the views and proposals of the members of the Executive Council. (Document CE 15/94/3.3)

26- The Director General introduced the Document, referring to the experience acquired by the Islamic Organization through the implement educational programmes, particularly those relating to curricula, teacher training and modernization of teaching methods. He indicated that, during the evaluation process, the General Directorate had noted the inability of these programmes to assimilate additional trained technical cadres, in addition to the insufficient follow-up and the limited efficiency of direct central supervision, in view of administrative procedures and on-site visits required, etc. as a result of this evaluation, the General Directorate submitted the project of setting up education centres that would directly supervise the in-service training of teachers as well as other educational aspects.

The Council proceeded then to discuss the project and endorsed it. The Council made the following proposals:

Eight Working Session: Wednesday, 20 Jumada II, 1415H (23 November 1994)

Morning

Agenda Item 3.5: Draft Islamic Convention for the Protection of Copyright

(Document CE 15/94/3.5)

27- The session started with a presentation of the project by the Director General who indicated that the protection of Copyright was a prerequisite of cultural development and a basic condition for the encouragement of literacy and artistic creativity and the dissemination of cultural radiance. He stated that the General Directorate, being conscious of the importance of this issue, prepared the Draft Islamic Convention for the Protection of Copyright, in cooperation with UNESCO, and addressed it to its Member States for comments. The Director General pointed out that ISESCO had received, in this connection, observation and proposals from the relevant parties in some Member States, and that the observations and proposals were taken into consideration during the final drafting of the project submitted to the Council.

The remarks made by the Council members on the various aspects of the document concerned both form and content and considered that this document, in general and in its present version, could hinder the dissemination of Islamic thought and culture among Islamic countries, a fact which is unprecedented in the history of the Muslim Ummah, particularly that all aspects of Islamic knowledge, including the Holy Qur'an, the pure Sunnah, the Sirah, the biographies and the stories, were bequeathed from generation to generation and moved from one country to another, without being shackled by legal constraints or Copyright claims. They were of the view that it would be advisable, in this case, to submit this document after an in-depth study of all aspects of the issue, and after recourse to the competent parties as well as the fiqh and legal jurisprudence. They also called for proceeding unhurriedly with the issues until national and regional experiences become full-fledged and until the Muslim Ummah becomes endowed, at this epoch, with richer intellectual and cultural contributions likely to restore its glory.

28- The Director General replied to the remarks made by the Executive Council members and indicated that the document had been addressed to the Member States, but the General Directorate received limited response from some Member states which sent their observations and proposals. He indicated that the interest taken by the General Directorate in laying down this project stemmed from its endeavour to implement a programme of the 1991-1994 Action Plan which was adopted by the Organization's General Conference. The Director General stated that, in spite of all that, the general Directorate was not in a hurry and could wait until everything materializes.

Following deliberations, the Council took the following decision:

Decision on Item 3.5 of the Agenda:

Draft Islamic Convention

The Executive Council,

(Document CE 15/94/4.2)

29- The Director General introduced item 4.1 concerning the draft amendments to the Financial Regulations and Regulations and underlined the reasons which led the General Directorate to propose the amendments contained in the document.

A number of Council members took the floor and made observations which generally focused on the procedural aspect relating to the competence of the Council to consider the proposed amendments to the Financial Regulations. In this respect, the Council Chairman indicated that the provisions of paragraph 3 of Article 11 of the Charter restrict this competence to the General Conference. During discussions, it became clear that item 4.2 concerning the amendments to the Rules of Procedure of the Executive Council fell within the same framework. In view of the foregoing, the Executive Council decided to defer consideration of the amendments until the 5th General Conference adopts the proposed amendments to the Charter. The Council decided to set up a committee composed of the representatives of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, the Republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina, the Republic of Senegal and the Arab Republic of Egypt to ensure that the articles of the internal regulations of the Organization conform to those of the Charter. The Committee would submit a report on its activities to the next session of the Executive Council.

- Considering the deliberations which have taken place;

Decides the following:

Agenda Item 4.3: Draft Document on Distribution of International Positions among Member States

(Document CE 15/94/4.3)

30- The Director General introduced the Document, recalling the 10th, 11th and 14th Council sessions which had examined the distribution of international positions among Member states and the Committee set up by the Council to examine ISESCO Organization Chart. He indicated that the Document submitted recalls the important efforts exerted in this regard. He concluded saying that there was consensus on the necessity to apply the principle of just geographic distribution of positions, but there were no definite rules and criteria to allot shares among Member states. He requested the Council to set up a specific mechanism to help the Director General apply the principle of just geographic distribution in the most appropriate manner.

After consideration of the Document, the Executive Council members pointed out the necessity to enrich it and conduct an in-depth study that would take into consideration the regulations in force in similar organizations as well as the principle of rotation in occupying senior positions. The Document was referred to a Committee set up by the Council comprising the representatives of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, the Republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina, the Republic of Senegal and the Arab Republic of Egypt.

The Council adopted the following decision:

Decision on Item 4.3 of the Agenda:
